

Online Health Care Forum Welcome to my Online Health-Care Forum. As you know, Congress is working on historic legislation that would overhaul our nation's broken health-care system. This forum has been set up to better inform you about this critical health care debate. Whether you're looking for data on the skyrocketing costs of health care, the complete text of the current health reform bill in the House, or information on what reform means for you and your family, this forum is your one-stop-shop for facts and figures on this critical issue.

While this forum is intended to provide information for you, its other primary purpose is for you to better inform me about your experiences with the health care system—both good and bad.

That is why I have set up a function that enables you to submit your own personal story or viewpoint on health care.

Thank you for your interest in this critical issue. By presenting the facts about health care reform and receiving your feedback, we can create a dialogue that moves this debate forward in a productive way.
